

For carriers of the Hepatitis B virus

Consent for paediatrician to access recommended vaccination of the newborn child in the pregnant person's medical records.

The risk of a child contracting Hepatitis B is greatly reduced by being vaccinated. The first dose is administered within 24 hours of birth.

The consent means that the paediatrician is granted permission to read your medical records, which contain the recommended vaccination for your future child.

The midwife at the Midwifery Clinic will ask you for your consent and document it in your medical records.
